Historian, Jim Turner, will be giving a special workshop for neighbors who wish to record oral histories in their neighborhood.

Questions to be answered:

- What are the ethical considerations of taking someone’s history?
- What should be in the release signed by the interviewee?
- What are the anticipated uses/formats of the interview?
- How are old photos best utilized?
- What is the best way to transcribe the interview?
- What are essential techniques and questioning strategies?

Jim is a recently retired historian from the Az Historical Society. He has many publications including Times Past: Reflections from AZ History. He continues to be an instructor and has presented at the U of A, Pima College and the Historical Society.

This workshop is sponsored by the Friends of Jefferson Park, Inc. and in partnership with Neighborhood Support Network. Attendance is limited. If you are considering preserving the history of your neighborhood through oral histories, this workshop is for you. Participants will leave with a packet of information.
